FRENCH AT ROYE; 3000 PRISONERS TAKEN PAST 24 HOURS COULD SAVE WATER TO IRRIGATE 40,000 ACRES

RIVER CONTROL VALUE PROVEN IN REPORT BY ENGINEERS

Project Urged to Commission
As a Food Production
Measure

OF VAST IMPORTANCE TO THREE COUNTIES

Experts Say Flood Might Tear Down Old Channel Near Anaheim

The carrying out of proper methods of water conservation and flood control on the Santa Ana river from its source in the mountains to the sea would result in saving enough water to irrigate 40,000 acres of land and increasing the crop production of San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties.

The project is one that will increase crop production and it is of such size and importance that it cannot be accomplished by local communities and interests alone but should and must, to be successful, be undertaken and carried to completion under the direction of and with the support of the Federal government in co-operation with the state.

These are the two outstanding conclusions of the Board of Engineers appointed by the three counties to make a report on the necessity and control of the waters of the Santa Ana river. The report of these engineers was made for the purpose of presenting the situation to the United States Waterways Commission with a view to getting federal recognition and participation in carrying out the project, which is one of supreme importance to the three counties.

A copy of that report has been filed with the Board of Supervisors of Orange county. The Board of Engineers composed of John H. Quinton, consulting engineer, Frank Omstrand, A. L. Sondergaard and W. K. Barnard. Its work has been done through the co-operation of the Tri-Counties' Reforestation Committee, which, for the past ten years, has been steady on the job of securing flood control of the Santa Ana river.

Detailed Report

The report comprises maps, photographs and thirty-three typewritten pages of material. A description of the county, statistics on crop production, population and water power are given in the introduction.

After describing the menace of the Santa Ana river in San Bernardino and Riverside counties, the report says:

"The Santa Ana river, without adequate protection works, might at some time rise sufficiently high to find its way to the old channel and passing through and over a territory which has long since ceased to be considered as lying in the path of a torrential stream, caused untold damage to the land, improvements, orchards and crops in its course westerly and southerly between the cities of Anaheim and Fullerton to the seat at Alamitos Bay or the Anaheim lagoon."

The engineers say that since the river has been confined to a channel through the Santa Ana coastal region, the silt that in former years was deposited in the lowlands by the spreading out of the storm waters have been deposited in Newport Bay.

Future Depends On It

"It can be conservatively stated that crop production, increase in population, growth in cities, development of power and the improvement of Newport Harbor are all directly dependent upon conservation of flood water for beneficial use and the control of the same for protection against damage to property and the silting of navigable waters," said the report in opening its statement of the possibilities of the district and of the problem.

It is estimated from actual measurements that the total waste from the Santa Ana water shed is in the neighborhood of 125,000 acre feet per year, which runs off into the Pacific ocean.

The report goes into detail showing geographic conditions in the watershed. Methods that should be used in securing flood control are outlined as including reforestation, afforestation.

Spain Is Nearer to Brink of War; May Seize German Ships

Ninety Enemy Vessels May Be Taken As Compensation
For U-Boat Sinkings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Spain is nearer the brink of war today. Diplomats are pointing to the recent Spanish note announcing that German ships interned in Spanish ports will be seized as compensation for boat sinkings. This is regarded here as in effect an ultimatum and may lead to an open rupture between Germany and Spain. Ninety German ships are involuntarily interned in the ports of Spain and all can be held as forfeits.

BOYS, 18 AND 20, MAY BE FIRST CALLED IN NEW DRAFT

Senate Agrees to Early Con- sideration Manpower Bill; May Pass Saturday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Men of 18 will not be taken into the army until it is absolutely necessary, Secretary of War Baker told the House Military Affairs committee today in opening hearings on the bill making the draft ages 18 to 45.

Baker and Chief of Staff March emphasized that although men of 18 were taken last, that they would begin calling them into the army for training by next spring, and that probably the whole new class 1 would be exhausted by next June.

Baker also said the classification of men over 31 would be an exceedingly long process and that it might be necessary to take some men of 18 before the men over 42 were fully classified.

"General Crowder is now preparing regulations looking to two classifications," Baker said. "One includes men from 19 to 36, inclusive, and these men will be called first. The others include men above 36. I have planned to have men of 18 in a separate classification and to defer calling them until it is absolutely necessary."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The Senate today agreed to terminate its recess Thursday for consideration of the man-power bill, fixing the draft age limits at 18 to 45. No objection was made by any senator when Chairman Chamberlain of the Military committee asked for unanimous consent to resume regular business at that time. Members of the committee hope it may be possible to consider and pass the bill before Saturday night.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Boys of 19 and 20 will be the first called when the new 18 to 45 draft age limitation becomes law, it was indicated today. General March has said the young men make the best fighters. Other military men agree with him.

General Crowder has figured he can get an army of 1,212,234 from these classes alone.

President Wilson, however, has power to designate which class shall be called first. He might call the older men first.

And there is some opposition in the House to calling the men between 18 and 21 before the others.

GERMANS ON WAY TO PETROGRAD IN RUSSIAN UNIFORMS

Bolshevik Consents to Hun- Occupation of Cities; Ally Aid Is Badly Needed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Three special trains, carrying 800 German soldiers wearing Russian uniforms, and the German embassy staff, have left Moscow for Petrograd, according to cables reaching the state department today.

The Germans left Moscow Aug. 9 and on the same day unusual military and police measures were taken in Petrograd in preparation for their arrival. Trotsky and Lenin are en route to Petrograd on the same day and immediately extraordinary police measures were taken at Kronstadt.

ZURICH, Aug. 19.—A German force is occupying Vitebsk and Smolensk, with the approval of the Bolshevik, a Warsaw dispatch declared today.

Smolensk is on the Dneiper river, 250 miles west and south of Moscow. Vitebsk is 75 miles west and north of Smolensk, on the Duna river. Both are important cities.

Hun-Bound Bomb Falls

ZURICH, Aug. 19.—A bomb was thrown at the chief of the German secret police in Warsaw but the attempt failed, according to a despatch that city received today.

A German patrol killed two of the would-be assassins but the rest escaped.

Infantry and cavalry are patrolling the streets. Many arrests have been made in the vicinity of the attack.

Decide' as to Poland

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 19.—German newspapers report that at the recent meeting of the kaiser and Emperor Karl at German headquarters, it was decided creation of the kingdom of Poland would be concluded in close alliance with the central powers.

Naming of the Austrian Archduke Carl Stephen as Polish king is not mentioned in the German press.

Should Rush Aid Now

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—With the Siberian winter approaching, entente governments today are striving to rush aid to the stranded Czechoslovaks and get them in shape to withstand the hardships ahead.

These troops, who have been making a vigorous stand in the heart of Russia between the Volga and Lake Balkan, are practically without food, clothing and munitions and are frantically appealing to the Allies.

Relief is being held up by the difficulty in organizing the economic mission which America is planning to send. Realizing the winter ahead in Russia will bring hardships, few business men who could undertake the work demanded are willing to leave this country. Continued disorder and demoralized conditions in Russia are added reasons for their refusal to go.

Meanwhile, the positions of the Allies in Nurmansk and Archangel become firmer. American troops were cheered as they landed at Vladivostok. Allied troops there greeted them as they docked. Anti-Bolshevik gave demonstrations of approval as the latest reinforcements arrived.

The Bolsheviks are fast losing their hold on the interior of Siberia. Formation of a Siberian government at Omsk, which is avowedly pro-Ally, will soon rally the people to the danger of Germany. A Siberian people's army has been organized and has joined the Czechoslovaks in the capture of Irkutsk.

Connection of the three centers, Vladivostok, Irkutsk and Murman, is now being attempted. The trans-Siberian railway from Irkutsk into the Amur region is closed to the Allies and the road from Omsk to Moscow is yet to be opened. When these two links are in possession of anti-Bolshevik forces, an unbroken line of communication will be in operation over which food, guns and other necessities will be rushed. Rapid restoration of order will follow this step officials believe.

AMERICAN SOCIALIST DELEGATES TO ITALY

ROME, Aug. 19.—The American socialist delegation left last night for the new power bill can end the war successfully in 1919, Chief of Staff March told the house military committee today. March's statement was the result of questions by members.

He declared the large American force could break the German lines whenever they wished.

He emphasized, however, that the program outlined by the War Department calling for eighty divisions in France and eighteen divisions in this country by June, was absolutely necessary to a successful prosecution of the war.

March said the American army in France and here at the present time number 3,012,112 men, including the August draft.

Povost Marshal General Crowder outlined his plan of calling men under the new draft as follows:

The registration cards of men 18 and those above 36 will be laid aside by the draft boards, which will at once start classifying men of 19 and 20, and men of 32 to 36 inclusive. These men will be put into Class 1 and many of them called immediately. After the boards have finished this classification, they will start to classify men above 36 who will go into Class 1 on the same basis as the men previously mentioned.

SUGGESTS THAT STORES OPEN TUESDAY NIGHT

Committee Advises Public to Buy Up Stock Tomorrow or Evening

The committee in charge of the merchants' picnic at Orange County Park Wednesday recommends that business houses be kept open tomorrow night, in order to accommodate customers who might find themselves short of necessities for surviving the following day, when it will be next to impossible to buy anything in the line of merchandise in Santa Ana.

Residents of the city should take cognizance of the fact that Wednesday is to be a "businessless" day in Santa Ana and protect themselves against running out of provisions by laying in a supply tomorrow or tomorrow night.

It will be a "94.44" per cent closing, for the merchants of the city almost to a man have co-operated in the closing, and in arranging a day of fun and recreation for their clerks. The day has been inaugurated, and will probably be observed every year hereafter, entirely for the benefit of the employees of the business establishments.

The one concern of the men in charge of the big picnic just now is how they will take care of the crowd that is expected to be present. From every side come reports that groups of employees will attend. They will be accompanied by their families. The merchants will take their families. It is expected that not less than 5000 people will be at the park during the day. While the picnic and program is entirely for the merchants and their employees, there is no doubt but that hundreds of people from the city and county will journey to the park to see the big doin's.

The committee will in no way hold itself responsible for the "eats" at noon. Everyone will be expected to provide his own lunch. The committee will provide coffee and soft drinks in abundance. The committee, however, is assuming responsibility for the joy-makers getting something to eat in the evening, for the festivities are to extend over into the night. "Hot dogs" and coffee will be the extent of the evening lunch, so far as the committee is concerned.

James and Stein, who are the heads of this feature of the program, were puzzled this afternoon as to what course they should pursue should the crowd swamp them and the supply of wieners and buns run short. The conclusion was to draft the available supply of bread and hold it in ready.

ness for emergency. And just as a starter, they will open the evening eating session with 3800 buns and 600 pounds of wieners on hand. That is a staggering bunch of "stomach trouble," but still the men feel that it might not be sufficient—and they don't want to let anyone go home Thursday morning with an aching void in his stomach—and according to program, no one is supposed to leave the park before Thursday morning.

Candidates of the county have been drafted for service at the park. They will have to serve the dear public in other than an official capacity—they will serve in the capacity of waiters, and it will give the dear public an opportunity to get back at them for the hours of time they have taken up in giving them an earful of dope about the pressing need of men of each's qualifications for filling the office to which the individual candidate aspires. It will be a marathon, with no mercy shown to the candidates. Keep 'em on the jump will be the slogan. Chef James has already rounded the most of them up and advised them of their duties.

The program of entertaining features is so large and of such excellent quality that no attempt as yet has been made to arrange them in order as a program for certain hours. It will be sort of a three-ring circus affair with something of exciting interest going in all three rings at once. About the only thing arranged that approaches definiteness is that clerks and merchants without private conveyances should gather at the corners of Fourth and Broadway streets between 9 and 11 o'clock Wednesday evening.

O'Brien has been in the city for some time in the capacity of a nurse and formed the acquaintance of Phillips. O'Brien has been out of town for several days and returning last evening called Phillips by phone, and in the conversation stated that he had just gotten into the city.

Phillips asked him to come to his home for dinner, as the family was about to sit down to the evening meal. O'Brien accepted and hastened to the home. It was immediately discovered that O'Brien was under the influence of liquor. He had no more than entered the house than he insisted that Phillips have a drink. He refused. O'Brien grabbed him, threw him to the floor and sat on him. Falling in his efforts to make his friend take a drink, O'Brien released Phillips.

The sports program will start about 10 o'clock. The committee has found that it has more prizes on hand than it has disposed of in the prizes and program published in the auto section of the Register Saturday, and has added additional prizes to some of the events.

Additional prizes will be offered for the ladies' nail driving contest as follows: First, $5 worth of wallpaper; second, 1 gallon can of Mazola; third, 3 cans Douglass salad oil.

Two cans of Borden's Peerless milk to each of the winning teams in the ball games has been added.

A fourth prize has been added to the following events for women: Ladies' shoe race, ladies' cracker-eating contest, 25-yard dash for merchants' wives, 25-yard dash for clerks' wives, ladies' nail driving contest. The prize is a broom.

A special prize is offered for the best group of kodak pictures of events during the day.

Cards will be issued to the prize winners and these should be presented to F. C. Blauer at his grocery, 208 West Fourth street, the following day.

The "secret stuff" to be pulled off in the evening is still a secret to everyone except the two members of the entertainment committee. All the tip they will give is that it will be great, and something that no one should miss. This stunt will come along between 7 and 9 o'clock. Sam Stein is being tuned up for his part in the secret stuff.

The regular Wednesday night concert of the Santa Ana band will be given at the county park instead of at Birch park. The city council authorized the change, and the council members will be at the picnic to enjoy the day and evening programs. Members of the band who have no conveyances are requested to meet at Elk's hall Wednesday evening at 6, where transportation will be waiting them.

ASKED FRIEND TO DINNER, LOST DIAMOND RING

Thos. O'Brien Steals Ring at Ernest Crozier Phillips Home

An invitation extended by Ernest Crozier Phillips to Thomas O'Brien to come to his home for dinner Saturday evening resulted in unexpected trouble for the former and jail for the latter.

O'Brien has been in the city for some time in the capacity of a nurse and formed the acquaintance of Phillips. O'Brien has been out of town for several days and returning last evening called Phillips by phone, and in the conversation stated that he had just gotten into the city.

Phillips asked him to come to his home for dinner, as the family was about to sit down to the evening meal. O'Brien accepted and hastened to the home. It was immediately discovered that O'Brien was under the influence of liquor. He had no more than entered the house than he insisted that Phillips have a drink. He refused. O'Brien grabbed him, threw him to the floor and sat on him. Falling in his efforts to make his friend take a drink, O'Brien released Phillips.

After O'Brien's departure it was discovered that a diamond ring belonging to Mrs. Phillips, valued at $150, was missing and O'Brien was immediately suspected.

Quick work on the part of City Marshal Jernigan and effective cooperation of the police in Anaheim and Los Angeles resulted in the arrest of O'Brien in Los Angeles within three hours after he had stolen the ring. The article was missed a little after 8 o'clock and the arrest was made in Los Angeles a little after 10 o'clock. City Marshal Jernigan immediately placed officers on watch at departing P. E. cars and Crown stages. He phoned to Anaheim, where he secured trace of O'Brien and his departure on a stage. His exact seat on a certain stage was ascertained and this information was given to the Los Angeles police, with the result that officers met the stage and took the man into custody. The ring was found on O'Brien. Phillips this morning swore to a complaint against him.

TAXPAYER IS FOR SHERIFF JACKSON

Editor of Register:

I am a taxpayer of Orange county and as such am interested in county politics, and particularly interested in the contest for the office of sheriff, because that office can be made a source of great expense to the county if not efficiently and economically handled. Each of the candidates is a trustworthy, conscientious man and a good fellow, as was Charlie Ruddock, Sheriff Jackson's predecessor; and nothing that I shall write is intended as criticism of anyone. From a taxpayer's standpoint, the selection of a sheriff is a cold-blooded proposition of picking the man who is known to be thoroughly competent and well trained for the office and capable of both efficiency and economy in its administration. After careful investigation and consideration, I conclude that Sheriff C. E. Jackson should be re-elected, not because of any unfitness of the other candidates, but because I find the present sheriff has been a good fellow, as was Charlie Ruddock, Sheriff Jackson's predecessor; and nothing that I shall write is intended as criticism of anyone. GREAT WAR SIGN OF COMING OF CHRIST BACK TO EARTH

—ELDER DANIELLS

Fifteen-Sixteenths of World's Population Engaged; Prophecies Fulfilled

The great war in which fifteen-sixteenths of the population of the globe are engaged is an omen, a sign, a herald of the approaching end of the age in which we live, and of the literal, personal, visible coming of Christ in the glory clouds of heaven to gather the world's great human harvest, according to Elder Arthur G. Daniels, president of the World Conference of the Seventh-day Adventists, who spoke in the mammoth canvas tabernacle at the encampment on the Polytechnic high school grounds last night on "The World War; Its Meaning in the Light of the Bible."

President Daniels painted a vivid word picture of the far-reaching extent of the war, quoted the words of well-known world leaders, and read the words of scripture, laying special emphasis on Matthew 24:7-14, "For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; and there shall be famines and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

"Nineteen centuries have passed, and that prediction is being marvelously fulfilled today. Tonight there are 25,000 European missionaries in non-Christian lands, preaching the gospel of the kingdom, shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

"Nineteen centuries have passed, and that prediction is being marvelously fulfilled today. Tonight there are 25,000 European missionaries in non-Christian lands, preaching the gospel of the kingdom, shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

"Christ's prediction of this great gospel movement was in answer to the disciples' question, 'What shall be the sign of Thy coming, and of the end of the world?' But He also foretold great world strife. I make bold to affirm that the great world conflict we are facing tonight is just as much a subject of prophecy as the conflicts of the Babylonians, the Greeks and the Medo-Persians. Why should it be thought a thing incredible that the prophets of God should foretell this mighty war? 'Distress of nations with perplexity,' was definitely predicted, and the Bible foretold this would be so great that men's hearts would be failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth, as we read in Luke 21:26."

"Dr. Nicolas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, New York, an institution which ranks with Harvard and Yale, says 'the wild onrush of events' and 'the dazed perplexity of the world's most trusted leaders are characteristic of the days in which we live. Who are the world's most trusted leaders? President Wilson, David Lloyd George, Clemenceau, of France, and so on. Do you think our great President puts an easy, thoughtless head on a pillow tonight? Our great President Lincoln was a man of prayer, and during the Civil war was heard at night pouring out his soul to the great God who rules the destinies of men and nations. He was heard to say: 'O Lord; this burden is too great for my heart. O Lord, send help, and guide us in this great national disaster,' or words of that import. The world did not know the cry of that man but God heard."

"Jesus said, 'Nation shall rise against nation. Tonight 32 nations are at each other's throats. Twenty-six of them have declared war, and five more have broken diplomatic relations. The population of these nations is 1,500,000,000; and there are only 1,600,000,000 people in the world. Fifteen-sixteenths of the human beings who walk upon the earth are in this great maelstrom. Have the words of Jesus come true?"

"The editor of Leslie's Weekly says 'this is a sobered world.' I wish it were. He continues: 'Engulfed in war, nation after nation has been swept by the terrible tide of destruction. No hemisphere has escaped. Armies march in Europe, Asia and Africa.'

RE-MAKING MEN

The physical and mental reconstruction of disabled soldiers has been one of the foremost problems of the war. Surgeon General Gorgas recently announced the completion of plans for this work in the United States. The reconstruction begins in the hospitals, where the marvels of modern medicine and surgery restore a large number of the men to physical fitness for a return to full military duty. Others leave the hospitals able to perform limited military service. Still others are discharged from further service.

Of this last group, however, a surprisingly large number are fully able to return to their former occupations. The minority need further training to fit them for earning their living.

The federal board of vocational training and a special war department committee on education are in charge of this occupational training for the wounded soldier. Physical reconstruction will go just as far as possible, backed by thorough mental training. The maximum physical and mental functional restoration is aimed at. The mental treatment includes education along occupational and technical lines as well as the no less important "cheer up" work of arousing the patient's interest in his recovery and wiping out the worry of an uncertain future.

The work is being carefully carried out. No doubt the educators and the medical and military men who are working at the problem will profit by the earlier experience of our allies. The tendency is away from basket weaving and lace-making for men, and toward a training that will enable them to do man-size jobs when they go back home. Experience has taught, too, the need for making haste slowly and giving the men a chance to "come back" to normal as slowly as necessary to make the recovery sure and lasting.

THE KAISER'S PHOTOGRAPH

A letter written by Kaiser Wilhelm to a certain Frau Meter is receiving deserved publicity. It reads:

"His majesty, the kaiser, hears you have sacrificed nine sons in defense of the fatherland in the present war. His majesty is immensely gratified at the fact, and in recognition is pleased to send you his photograph with frame and an autograph signature."

The letter inevitably reminds American readers of the message sent by President Lincoln to Mrs. Bixby of Massachusetts, who had lost five sons in Civil war—because it is so different.

"I feel," said Lincoln, "how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of a republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom."

We turn back from this heartfelt expression of warm, human sympathy and read again the kaiser's brutal tender of "his photograph with frame and an autograph signature" in full payment for the sacrifice of nine sons in the furtherance of his imperial ambition.

Possibly that letter with photographic enclosure really did comfort the mother of those boys. Possibly a German mother holds her kaiser in such high esteem that what looks to us like an incredible insult will bring her consolation. Is not the kaiser God's anointed, and next to Him in majesty and power? And yet, we doubt it.

Motherhood must be pretty much the same, the world over. The thing that is not the same is the political system, bred in the bone, which in one case makes the head of a nation the spokesman of that nation's finest feeling, and in the other makes him an incarnation of soulless egotism.

MORE WAR FILMS

Everybody who enjoyed the first U. S. government war films, "Pershing's Crusaders," will be glad to note the announcement of the second official films.

The principal theme of this new series of pictures, "America's Answer," is the vast work performed by American engineers in the construction of an entire seaport in France. The lumber jack felling trees in the forests, construction work in shops, building railroads, wharves and storehouses, the transportation of vast supplies of raw materials and foodstuffs as well as the troops themselves, the huge traveling cranes, the men working with hammer and axe and nails and cement and steel, all are seen as part of the unbelievably vast American war program now in full swing across the Atlantic.

There are more warlike scenes, too, but the non-combatant activities are given a chance to receive their due share of public interest and admiration.

It is pleasing to learn also that these pictures are better made than the first series. The improved photography has resulted in clearer pictures, and the choice of scenes and arrangement shows a more discriminating dramatic appreciation on the part of directors. Captions are said to indicate a higher degree of confidence in the intelligence of the viewing public.

These official war pictures are a fine thing. It has been observed a good many times that the present war is too big for the generation participating in it to appreciate or even to view in its entirety. We can grasp only details here and there. Countless stories of simple human interest and epic heroism will doubtless go unrecorded forever. To some extent, however, the official films of the Allied governments, truthful as they are, help us to see the machinery of the war as it is, to feel the bigness of the task and to feel that there is a part for everyone to play in achieving the final victory.

WAR SLOGANS

"Hold fast!" is Lloyd-George's latest word to the British people. It is a fine, strong phrase, but hardly seems to do full justice to the British army, in view of its present triumphant progress. The old British motto, "Carry on!" seems more applicable. It is likely, however, that the injunction to hold fast was meant for the people at home. The army will carry on quite satisfactorily if the nation sticks.

"Tenacity, audacity!" is the message of the fiery General Petain to his French armies. We might turn that into the resonant Anglo-Saxon words, "Hold bold!" It combines the meanings of the two English mottoes.

For our own army, and likewise for the nation back of it, we may suggest a typically American phrase that means about the same thing, and fits nicely into the present situation. It is, "Keep a-going!"

The most important steps in California's penological advance were taken by Governor Stephens in the enactment of the prison segregation measure and the inauguration of the indeterminate sentence. Definite results already are manifest. The professional criminal element shows a tendency to give California a wide berth, because of fear of the maximum penalty. Segregation is one of those vital factors in prison management in which California had been laggard.

Registering Liberty Bonds

From the New York Sun

The treasury department is studying a plan for the registration of Liberty Bonds of the fourth loan under which each bond would bear a coupon which the purchaser could fill out, detach and mail to Washington, where it would be properly filed away. The bond could not be transferred without recording the transfer, and the loss of bonds by theft would be guarded against measurably. It is also probable that in operation such a scheme would prevent many holders of small bonds from exchanging them for worthless securities offered by glib swindlers who promise larger returns than the government or any legitimate business will promise. Not a few of these rascals make their trades hand to hand. They have their bogus stock certificates in their pockets, they meet their victims and talk them into a state of financial imbecility and get the good bonds before the unfortunate, whose savings they are stealing, recover their senses. In a great many cases the game could not be worked if the bonds were not immediately available or if their transfer involved correspondence with Washington, in the course of which delay would give opportunity for reflection. One of the greatest benefits that can possibly come to the country from the war is to have the bonds of the United States owned by its citizens in small lots. Any scheme that will encourage this is distinctly in the public interest; and any scheme that will make it more difficult for thieves to rob innocent, patriotic investors will have the support of everybody except the thieves.

His friends also point to the fact that his qualifications as an officer and executive in conducting city policies work attracted the attention of the city council of Santa Ana in 1912, when he was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late George Wilson as city marshal. He was now serving a four-year term, to which he was elected by the voters in April, 1915.

Harmony among the peace officers of Orange county is one of Jernigan's campaign slogans. His plan is to organize the officers of the county into one harmonious whole and bring about a co-operation that would, in his opinion, lessen the expense of the office of sheriff. By such organization his friends believe he would find out the qualifications of constables and deputies and other officers of the county, and knowing their qualifications, would be in position to assign to them work that develops in their district instead of sending men from the office, at the expense of the county.

Enforcement of the laws—and to the letter—is what he proposes and promises if elected to the office of sheriff. Jernigan has been active in helping in the war financing activities in Santa Ana and his services have always been at the command of those in charge of such activities.

His obligation to the city of Santa Ana as head of the police department has necessitated his staying close to his work and for this reason he has not been able to get out and make a county canvass of voters. In this he is sacrificing his personal interest to those of the nation and the city, his friends say.

There is talk of Mackensen succeeding Ludendorff.

But we find in one of those 29-cent dictionaries that succeed means follow. So our guess is that Foch succeeds Ludendorff.

It doesn't seem to mean much when you read that a German is limited to a few hundred grammes of flour a week; but putting it another way, the latest order means that a man in Berlin receives just about as much flour in a month as we Americans receive of sugar. Which sounds cheerful, doesn't it? And no meat of any kind!

HEALTH INSURANCE

Editor Register: As one who is personally opposed to the proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 26, providing for compulsory health insurance, may I submit to the readers of the Register, through The People's Forum, some facts concerning the question at issue:

At the general election in November, this year, the voters of this state will be asked to reject or adopt Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 26, which is designed to give the Legislature power to establish a system of compulsory health insurance. Bills of similar nature have been defeated in every state in the Union in which they have been offered. In Massachusetts a constitutional convention is in session, and this week rejected, by a vote of 107 to 43, a proposed amendment to the constitution of that state designed to confer authority on the Legislature to establish a system of social health insurance.

The proposed amendment was opposed by a number of persons who regard such insurance legislation as inconsistent with democratic institutions. When it was learned that the matter was coming before the constitutional convention the Boston Central Labor Union adopted and sent to all members of the convention a resolution which condemned compulsory health insurance as "a vicious scheme which seeks to establish a system of periodical physical examinations for the workers."

In January of this year the special commission on social insurance in Massachusetts reported adversely on compulsory health insurance, stating, "there appear to be two serious obstacles to the enactment of legislation of this character, namely, the united opposition of employer and employee to the scheme, and

A pretty wedding took place on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. McWilliams at Buena Park, when their daughter, Miss Stella McWilliams, became the bride of Calvin M. Dohm.

The rooms were profusely decorated with fragrant pink asters and asparagus fern, and a bower of the feathery green, with huge bouquets of the asters at either side, formed a beautiful background for the wedding party. The marriage service was read by Rev. Hunt of San Fernando.

The bride was most attractive in her gown of white crepe de chine with her veil caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and ferns. Her bridesmaid, Miss Berneta Phillips, was also attired in white and carried pink Cecil Brunner roses and ferns.

The groom's brother, Glenn Dohm, accompanied him as best man.

The young couple will make their home at Buena Park, after their return from a brief honeymoon. The bride's sister, Miss Elsie McWilliams, is a member of the Register business staff.

NURSE'S REGISTRATION

Time For Enlistment In Student Nurse's Reserve Extended Indefinitely

Owing to the fact that there was considerable unavoidable delay in the distribution of registration cards, the time in which women may enroll in the student nurses reserve has been extended. The fact that a minimum of three years' training is called for is probably the reason why the registration places are not swamped with applicants—women are like their soldier brothers, they want to get "into the game" as quickly as possible. But even should the war end—as it is certainly hoped it will—before their training period is over, there will be the same crying need for nurses, for one of the tragic aftermaths of war is the army of invalid and crippled soldiers who return.

California's quota is only one thousand, and it ought to be very easily achieved. The following letter comes from Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, National Chairman of the Women's Committee of National Defense:

"The Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense desires to express its greatest satisfaction with the hearty response, the ingenuity and initiative manifested by the state divisions in their plans toward the support of this work. The holy and patriotic rivalry between the states in order to lead in the number of nurses enrolled gives promise that when the drive is finished there will be, not only the twenty-five thousand asked for, but a greater number to assure us of further support when another demand for nurses is made."

The government agencies in Washington co-operating in the drive will await with eagerness reports from the states, and interest will be felt as to which state will be able to first deliver its quota.

The inspiring news from the front, the courage, devotion and splendid sacrifice shown by our men on the battlefields, are a challenge to the women of the nation to respond to their needs which we are sure our young women will accept and the response will be: "As you have offered yourselves to serve and suffer for us and our country, we gladly offer ourselves to serve and seek to heal your wounds in honor of your service and our country, and we hereby tender our service in the same spirit of patriotic devotion to duty which has so ennobled you."

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Burns and Mrs. E. R. Curtis have returned from an outing at San Juan Hot Springs.

W. Frank Harris of Harris Brothers, real dealers, returned today from a business trip into the San Joaquin valley, going as far as Modesto. He reports business humming up that way, with crops good in spite of dry weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marsile, Mr. Marsile's father, Mrs. Raymond Marsile and Mrs. E. A. Biggs leave by automobile tomorrow for San Francisco. They will visit Raymond Marsile and Martin Biggs, who are in the navy training at Goat Island, and Frank Biggs, who is at Camp Fremont.

Mrs. Mary Raney of Corona is a guest at the home of her nephew, Walter Fine.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Nealey, who have been in the east, have returned home. Mrs. Nealey left in May and Mr. Nealey in July, the former going for the benefit of her health and passing most of the time with relatives at Clarkson, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Feighner and mother, Mrs. Van Nocker, have been enjoying a vacation at Laguna and Arch beaches, for the week, concluding that a cottage near by was rightly named, Linger Longer.

Mr. C. L. Johnson is leaving for several months in the east on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Games and conversation and a general good time filled the evening hours until the company resolved itself into a slumber party. Besides Miss Brown, Mrs. Mosher's guests included Misses Bernice Reisch, Leona Streech, Jewel Ralph, Myrtle Klahn and Josephine Brubaker.

RIVER CONTROL
VALUE PROVEN IN REPORT BY

tion, storage reservoirs, retardation works, spreading of waters, channel rectification and bank protection.

The Future Scope

"The scope of the spreading work," says the report, "so far undertaken is very small as compared with its possibilities. This can readily be realized by referring again to the great extent and absorptive power of the numerous ground water basins and to the annual waste of flood water, which still averages 125,000 acre feet. Of this at least 50 per cent can be conserved for long periods. With an average duty of water of 2.3 acre feet per acre, this would enable the intensive cultivation of 27,000 acres. The re-use of water (by which the report refers to the fact that water used in the upper basins seeps down and is again used) particularly in view of the succession of the underground basins, is conservatively estimated at 50 per cent of the water originally applied, so that the total additional acreage which might be irrigated with proper conservation is in excess of 40,000 acres. Statistics prove that the average annual crop terrests alone," ends the report.

Construction Necessary

"To effect complete control of the river," continues the report, particularly after it leaves the Santa Ana canyon at Yorba and also along certain reaches of the stream in the San Bernardino valley, the construction of further works will be necessary. Some modification of the works now used may be necessary, the change to be based upon a study of the effect of conservation measures in the upper river.

Below Yorba there is little chance for a reduction in volume of the river, except on Santiago creek, which "tributary watershed," wherever possible, will be treated in some manner as the high tributaries, and all measures taken to retard and conserve storm waters and destroy their power for damage.

Important to Nation

In urging the State Waterways Commission to take up the project, the engineers say: To the nation at large the importance of increasing at this time the areas devoted to food production is apparent. In the Santa Ana valley there is no doubt whatever that the intense agricultural returns, due to semi-tropic climate, long growing seasons and close markets, from the present irrigated area, will be proportionately increased by the conservation program here suggested.

The report urges that action be taken under the Newlands act for a comprehensive plan of development through the co-operation of the federal and state governments, with the counties, and the irrigation and power companies and individual and community interests.

"It is a project of such size and importance that it cannot be accomplished by local communities and in-

SOCIAL CRISIS
IN JAPAN IS INDICATED BY
RICE RIOTS

Lack of Price Control and Profiteering Held Responsible For Outbreaks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Food rioting in Japan threatens to develop into political revolt unless prompt steps are taken by the Tokio government to provide rice for the populace, according to the view here today.

German agents may be working among the masses to stir up disorder by taking advantage of the profiteering situation, which is rapidly becoming acute there, it is believed. Anti-annexationists who are strenuously opposing plans for intervention in Siberia are also believed to be stirring the people to bold steps which might unseat the present ministry.

Officials here were reluctant to draw conclusions from the rioting reported in all parts of the island empire. That the germ of class revolution may be spreading to Japan is regarded possible. Japan's political system has been modified greatly in recent years and that democratic ferment of the western nations is becoming stronger, especially since the war began and the democratic nations have become more closely associated with Japan.

Details of the rioting are arriving several days late, but latest information here attributed the immediate outbreak to the food situation. Profiters in rice have cornered the market and are holding the price beyond the reach of the underpaid classes.

Rioters are reported to have stoned homes of the wealthy, breaking into restaurants and rice depots and attacking geisha girls as they rode through the streets.

Predictions are freely made here that a social crisis is fast approaching.

State department officials attribute the outbreak entirely to the desperate food situation in Japan. Rice was practically doubled in price since the war began and wages have continued very low. Japanese speculators have been hoarding rice to force a higher price and the government is greatly concerned over their actions. Steps to break the rice trust have already been taken. Among them is prohibition of exportation of rice. Measures are to be taken. Among them is prohibition of exportation of rice. Measures against rice speculation may be taken and it is almost certain the government will buy vast quantities to distribute to the people at once. Officials scout the theory that pro-German and Bolshevik activities are responsible for the uprising and declare socialist thought is entirely absent in Japan. There is no political significance in the outbreak, they said. Through the strong national military police the government will be able to hold a strong hand over the masses and shortly put down disorder, officials say.

TOKYO, Aug. 16. (Delayed).—Soldiers have been called out in practically every large city of Japan to aid the police in restraining mobs which have resorted to wanton destruction of the property of rich men. The riots are the outgrowth of the rice riots, which began a week ago. Mobs at first contented themselves with raiding rice shops and demanding lower prices.

Japanese farmers have hoarded 120,000,000 bushels of rice, the rioting people declare.

In some places the police have shown sympathy for the mobs and have refused to disperse them. Disorders which started Tuesday were quelled by police with the aid of troops.

ORANGE GROWERS
MUST HAVE HUMUS

The cry of all the ranchers is: "We need Humus to maintain the fertility of our soil. This Southern California climate is semi-arid, and the soil is deficient in Humus, which is necessary to give the trees the lasting stimulant that they need. Organic matter, such as straw, has to go through the process of decomposition, which takes time, and we need Humus now."

Nature was foresighted enough to see this need long before the people realized they were using up the valuable elements of their soil and not putting anything back into it, so, in her wise Nature's way, right in the heart of the San Bernardino orange district, she made a bed using all the plants, such as Melliotus clover, red clover, grasses and other vegetation, and let it decompose back into the elements from which it came, making a perfect vegetable manure.

This bed of vegetable manure is now available for use. Upon chemical analysis it has been found to contain 24 per cent actual humus and carries all the other necessary plant foods that the trees must have. It is being sold by the I. S. Chapman Company at an extremely low price of $9.00 per ton, with a 5 per cent discount for cash in 10 days, making the price $8.55 per ton net.

They will be very glad to send you sample of this Concentrated Vegetable Manure or C. M. V. HUMUS—and booklet telling about this supermanure. Address them: I. S. Chapman & Co., Inc., San Bernardino, Calif.—Advertisement!

BATTLELINE NOW

American troops advanced slightly beyond Frapelle this morning and last night and consolidated the ground won in yesterday morning's attack. The Germans in retaliation dropped 2500 shells in Frapelle but failed to drive out the Americans.

(Frapelle is in Alsace, five miles east of St. Die and only four miles from the German border. It was captured in a surprise attack Saturday morning.)

West of Gebweiler forty-five boches attempted to raid American positions but were driven out by artillery and rifle fire without being able to reach our lines.

(Gebweiler is in German Alsace, twelve miles north of Milhousen. The lines are about four miles west of Gebweiler and ten miles inside German territory at that point.)

There was lively patrol activity in the Woevre area.

One doughboy, wounded nine times, heroically carried in wounded companions.

An American corporal, whom it is inadvisable to name, has accounted for six boches in the last three days, including a German sniper, who had been bothering the Americans for some time. He located the sniper in a tree and maneuvered a whole morning to get in position. Then he took a single shot. Observers saw the sniper tumble from the tree. The corporal's best work, however, was the killing of three boches inside of five minutes. Officers vouch for the fact.

In and across an Alsation valley where one section of a German trench cuts another, the corporal noted the time for relief of guards and made the necessary arrangements. He got the three boches attempting to cross the trench intersection with just three shots. No others attempted to pass.

BRAYTON NORTON PRAISES U. S. WORK IN FRANCE

To See It Silences Criticism
On Way Money Is Spent

Brayton Norton, of Balboa, and who entertained Register readers with breezy correspondence and special articles from the beach, has reached France. In his usual breezy and interesting style he gives some of his observation of conditions over there in a letter to Bob Durkee of the Newport News. His letter is dated at sea July 28, indicating that he is in sea service, and is as follows:

We arrived in France on the Fourth of July, and had to content ourselves with watching the shore through the glasses, as we were not allowed to land at this port. All of the ships were "dressed up" in their best clothes—English, French, American and one Japanese—and from the shore we could see the business houses were all flying the American flag. I thought of you all on the Peninsula on this day, and wondered if there was the usual fervor of excitement that I always associate with the eleventh-hour preparations of the celebration of the Fourth on the sand-sit.

On arriving at our port of debarkation a few days later, I was very much surprised to have a fine-looking young soldier approach me and ask me if I was from Newport Beach, Cal. When I told him I was not only from that famous resort, but proud of it, he told me he was a son of George Smith. It is needless to say I was more than glad to meet him. I do not remember him at the beach, although, of course, I knew his father and his uncle, but in a few minutes we became very well acquainted in going over old times.

I was in France on the 14th and at one of the largest cities of the republic had the great pleasure of witnessing the big Independence Day parade. It was truly an inspiring sight. The day was perfect and from early dawn all of the streets leading to — were thronged with the country people as they journeyed toward the city for the national fete.

Although engaged in a struggle to the death with their traditional enemy for four long years, one would scarcely surmise this fact by the singularly care-free demeanor of the French people as they watched their hero soldiers pass in review before their proud although at times tear-dimmed eyes. Characteristically, France has fought the war laughing—and they laugh yet. Truly they are indeed a great people!

There were many French soldiers and soldiers from the colonies of France. And they marched with a pride that was noticeable, from the handsomely-mounted chasseurs to the dark-visaged men from Algeria. The Americans made a great show-

WITH ELKS LEADING, THIS WEEK DRIVE FOR $4500 FOR SALVATION ARMY WAR FUND IS ON

Thursday and Friday of this week are the days set apart by the Santa Ana district committee for raising $4500 for the Salvation Army War Fund. Team captains are to make a thorough canvass of the southern end of the county.

This is to be a cash campaign, and pledges will not be received. Any man or woman who desires to contribute to the Salvation Army fund will be expected to give cash either on the day of the solicitor's visit or else within a day or two. Those who are going to give ought to lay the cash aside or write out a check before Thursday so that it will be ready at hand to be placed in the hands of the solicitors.

The checks can be made payable to the Salvation Army War Fund or Santa Ana Elks' Lodge.

Everybody Get In
Each solicitor will have a card signed by Wacker.

While Santa Ana Elks have taken a lead in the drive, the lodge is acting merely as leader and is not in any way attempting to confine the drive ing, and as they swung along side by side with their cheering Allies, the spectators went wild with enthusiasm. For every French soldier there were three American soldiers, and they were drilled and equipped in a manner that would silence any word of criticism concerning the way the people's money has been spent. These khaki-clad men, 3000 miles away from their native land, furnished a fitting answer to the skeptic who asks if America really means to send an army to France.

In seeing the American soldiers in

They'll Never Forget

"These huts, pitched within the shock of German guns, are ramshackle, and bare, and few, for no organization can grow rich on the pennies and nickels that are tossed into tambourines at the street corners of the world. But they are doing a work that soldiers themselves will never forget, and it is an especial pleasure to say so here, because the Salvation Army, being much too simple and old-fashioned to know the uses of advertisement, has never asked us to."

Quoting the above, the Chicago Tribune says:

"These words are significant not only because they are an encomium of the work of the Salvation Army but because they seem to give us the key to the success of that work. The Salvation Army huts are the nearest huts to the firing line; there, within the shock of German guns, the Salvation Army girls serve our boys with coffee and crackers, and doughnuts. And it is all done in the simple and old-fashioned way which is characteristic of the Salvation Army."

accomplished in comparatively so short a time.

Crossing and re-crossing, in France and in New York my thoughts go out to you all on the sand-suit. (I suppose you have outgrown that name now, although I always liked it.) And, with millions of others, I am looking forward to the time when the war will be over and we can all return to our homes again after having brought about a lasting and decisive peace—with victory.

BRAVE, BUT NOT ONLY BRAVE—WORKED, TOO

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 17.—Paul Mauchle of San Jose, wasn't satisfied to fight for his country in only one way—he had to be a "soldier of the soil" as well.

Because he lived at Garden street, at 420 he wanted the best kind of a war garden, so before he "joined up" and went to Camp Lewis on his way to France, young Mauchle secured a garden manual from the war garden commission, and with this as a guide proceeded to get after the back yard. He worked diligently in his spare hours, and by the time he left for camp his beans were large enough to wave goodbye to him.

Some of the finest string beans and corn ever grown here were presented to the San Jose Chamber of Commerce by Mrs. S. Mauchle, the soldier's mother, who took over the work of the war's war garden when he went away.

GARAZ HAS FUND INFORMATION ON GERMANS IN MEXICO

Prisoner Tells Deputy Sheriff of Activities Across the Border Line

S. Diaz Garaz is some "hot airtist" or he has a fund of information on the activities of Germans in Mexico that could be made of service to Uncle Sam. Garaz is the Mexican who, some time ago, secured an automobile from A. H. Sitton at Fullerton by exchanging an old car and issuing a no-fund check for the difference. He later was arrested on the border and returned here and convicted. He was taken to San Quentin by Robert Strain of Fullerton and en route he was more or less talkative and informed Strain that while he was in Mexico he operated an auto stage line between Mexicali and a big German camp not far from Guaymas. Before Garaz left here suddenly for Mexicali he says he was introduced to a German in Anaheim who told of the high wages offered to Mexicans and others in Mexico. He also said this German had suggested that he (Garaz) make a clean up on no-fund checks before he left California.

In describing this German to Strain, Garaz said the man was about 5'6" in height; had blue eyes, light hair, weighed about 165 and spoke five languages, but was not a resident of Anaheim. When in Anaheim Garaz says the German gave him the name of a German to call upon when he met this party at Mexicali the two called on the highest Mexican official in Mexicali.

Garaz stated that the Germans agreed to pay him $150 a month and expenses to operate the stage line. He reports that there are thousands of Germans in Mexico but that they are pretty well scattered throughout that country.

He also says it is understood down there that an attack will be made on the United States as soon as a strong military organization is completed. Garaz told a highly interesting story of German operations. He says that at the big German camp, not so far from Guaymas, everything is carried on like clock work.

Garaz states that he had to go through four lines of guards to reach the camp, located in the hills.

He says in the camp there are 20 airplanes and one of the best equipped wireless stations to be found anywhere; that the electricity is generated by water power nearby; that some buildings are located under the hills the same as the wireless station. In telling of the wireless station, Garaz says high poles are sent up from shafts in two hills every night at 10 o'clock and are operated for hours, the plants being powerful enough to work with stations thousands of miles away. The poles are lifted by great derricks.

Before daylight, according to his statement, the poles are lowered back into the shafts. In the day time they are not visible, even in the camp; everything around the camp is right up to date.

Garaz claims that all bills are paid in gold; that no checks are issued and that no Mexican money is used in payment of bills. He also reports that in many parts of northern Mexico Mexicans are being drilled by expert German military men.

While in Mexico Garaz used the big auto he got from A. H. Sitton of Fullerton by giving a no-fund check on an exchange of machines. Sitton was anxious to get his car back.

An American in Mexicali in some way made arrangements with Garaz to bring him over the line and when the American side was reached officers were in waiting and nabbed the no-fund check kiter.

Automobile Owners! Attention

Please Take Notice That Beginning September First
We Will Go On a Cash Basis

In doing this, we are complying with the request of the War Economy Board of the Council of National Defense, that the following wartime policies be enforced, for the purpose of releasing expert mechanics for government work.

1. We will discontinue all unnecessary Free Service and Inspections.
2. In order to eliminate unnecessary office work, the Government has requested that all business be conducted as economically as possible. Therefore, on and after September 1st, 1918, charge accounts will be discontinued. All parts, Accessories, Repairs and Labor will be C. O. D.

THE REASON FOR THE CASH BASIS

Explanation seems hardly necessary. Bookkeeping costs money. Bad debts are a tax on the business, which must be made up in some way, and are in practice paid by the good customer. In order to run on such a basis a business must have a large margin of profit.

In these strenuous times, we have no labor to spare on unnecessary bookkeeping, and no money to lie idle on overdue and slow-pay accounts. The reliable customer has nothing to lose and everything to gain by paying cash. The customer who is not reliable can no longer be a burden on the man who is, in so far as this business is concerned.

We can assure you that the saving made possible by this rule will enable us to give you better service in all lines. Hoping you will see the necessity for this rule and accept it in the spirit in which it is intended, as a necessary wartime economy, we are,

Mr. REECE JONES says: "Just a few lines in regard to Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets which I took for kidney trouble. I had a kidney stone and had to recommend them to everybody. I know that they are good or I would not recommend them. After taking a few bottles I saw that the swelling was going down so I continued their use. I have not had any trouble with them now and am cure getting along fine and dandy."

Rosary" and "A Perfect Day" by request.

Mrs. Josephine Wood of San Bernardino, sang several Spanish songs (in costume) and several songs in English. Mrs. Wood is a prominent member of the food conservation committee of San Bernardino and is recovering here from an illness caused by overwork.

The Haines twins, Sylvia-Belle and Venus Louise, charming little girls of 6 years, danced and sang several numbers. This is by no means the first appearance of the twins in Red Cross affairs. In Pomona, just before they came to Laguna, they danced and sang at the Red Cross tea shop two afternoons, and were the means of adding $200 to the fund, and for three days they entertained enthusiastic mobs of soldiers at Camp Kearny. Chauncey Haines, father of the children, a professional pianist and composer, accompanied all of the performers and added much to the pleasure of the evening. Miss Marjory Hardy, music supervisor of the Alhambra schools, and Dr. Huntington of Hollywood, also sang several solos, which were delightful.

Talk on Czechoslovakia

Tuesday evening between films at the Lynn theater, Miss Madeline Veverka of Los Angeles gave a most interesting war talk on the Czechoslovak situation. Miss Veverka's charming personality as well as her accurate knowledge delighted the audience, many of whom had attended the theater in anticipation of the talk. Miss Veverka is vacationing at Arch Beach.

Mrs. Frank I. Callis of Lompoc, Cal., who was in Laguna some time ago, has returned for another visit. Mrs. Callis is studying art with N. Haz, who is holding a class here this summer. She is at "The Breakers."

T. R. Griffith, a Welch artist, has been spending a few days at the Breakers. Mr. Griffith is now of Los Angeles.

Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Cranston and their two daughters, Miss Alice and Miss Rena, of Santa Ana, have been occupying "The Penholder," remaining a short while.

Rev. T. R. Pratt, Mrs. Pratt, their daughter, Jessie, of Pasadena are in Laguna for a few days. Mr. Pratt spoke Thursday and Friday at the Bible conference held in Laguna church.

On Sunday Mr. Pratt preached here and Mr. Prewitt preached in the Lincoln avenue Presbyterian church of Pasadena, in exchange with Mr. Pratt.

HALT CELEBRATION TO MARCH 18 MILES TO FRONT TRENCHES

Corporal Byram Tells Interestingly of Experiences Before Hun Drive

How their Fourth of July celebration in France was halted abruptly by orders to move to the front at once, how they marched eighteen miles with full equipment, got out of the way for an artillery regiment that was going up on the double-quick, and then tried to get a little sleep before going into the trenches, with cannon booming all around, is related in a letter from Corporal W. C. Byram, with the Rainbow Division, to his parents at Westminster. The letter follows:

July 9, 1918.

I have been unable to do any writing lately for during the last two weeks we have been more or less on the move, and now we are in a different part of France. We have travelled by rail and on foot. The cars used were the same as those we travelled in before—little box cars with four wheels. They are labeled on the outside, "Chevaux 8, Hommes 40," meaning that the car's capacity is 8 horses or 40 men. When that many men are in, it sure is crowded. There is only standing room, and packs, cartridge belts and rifles stuck around promiscuously, and at night the men are packed together like sardines. When walking we carry 100 cartridges and rifle with full pack and by the time you have stepped off 30 kilometers with all your earthly possessions on your back it is enough. All we have, we carry. Perhaps you would like to know what we take. For a bed we have one blanket. Each soldier has half a shelter tent so that two can be buttoned together to make a tent for two. We also have to carry a raincoat, three pairs socks, one extra shirt, one extra pair of shoes, a suit of underclothes, towel, shaving outfit and our reserve rations. I can't say much for camping out with those shelter tents with only a blanket to roll up in, for although the weather is warm, the nights are rather cool.

One day it rained and at night we camped in a grassy field. We lived through it all right but were glad to leave, and next night we slept in a barn. At one place we camped near the Marne River and I had a swim in it. The country looks quite different from any I have seen. The forests are scarce and of a different kind of trees. There are broad plains for miles, and the weather has been hot and dry—much like Southern California and to a large extent like France. The natives say the drouth is unusual and from my experience I should certainly say it was.

bration—track meet—boxing, etc., when, in the middle of the afternoon, games an officer got up on the stand and said orders had come to move at once. That broke up the games and we hurried back to our respective barns and rolled packs, had supper and got ready to resume our march toward the front. We started about dark. Our wagon, supply train, rolling kitchen, etc., always come along behind and it makes quite a procession when all strung out. Up ahead we heard the big guns and would see their flashes against the sky. They were putting over a barrage I guess for it was a continuous boom, boom. We marched along for an hour or so, and then had to get out of the way for an artillery regiment that came clattering by on the double quick. Gun after gun came crashing by with horses on the run, followed by caissons of ammunition. It seemed as though they never would be done going by, but finally the last wagon went rumbling by and we resumed the march. Aeroplanes were buzzing around overhead but we could only see the colored lights that they carried and turned on every now and then. All night long there was a big search light shining up in the sky. It must have been a good many miles away. Towns were scarce but we passed through one and it was in the same condition as the villages on the front—ruins and deserted except for a few people. We got to our destination just at sunrise and I was sure tired. Just try walking eighteen miles with 50 or 60 pounds beside rifle, ammunition, gas masks, etc. We rolled up in our blankets on the ground for a few hours' sleep and at night went to work in the trenches. Might just as well work as try to sleep with all the cannons around us going off all night as they do.

This is just a sample of our experiences here.

OF COURSE, EVERYBODY WOULD BENEFIT FROM A HARBOR AT NEWPORT

Seal Beach Wave: Seal Beach expects to profit in more ways than one if Newport gets a shipbuilding plant, as now seems probable. Men working at the plant can maintain homes in Seal Beach much more conveniently than when working at San Pedro. Besides, with a shipbuilding plant at Newport the Pacific Electric railway will necessarily have to maintain adequate service to accommodate the traffic both summer and winter, and better car service, especially during the winter, is what Seal Beach needs.

Reports from Newport indicate that the plant is an assured fact. It is expected that preparatory work will begin within the next thirty days.

Seal Beach congratulates her neighbor down the coast at the bright prospects of a wonderful growth, and hopes the shipbuilding plant will be speedily followed by a government harbor. Both will benefit all sections of Orange county.
